

Physicians' Practice Scanning

& Automatic Indexing for CDI

Is outpatient CDI a part of your healthcare organization's strategic plan?

CDI, or clinical documentation improvement, is very familiar to physicians in the hospital – but in the private physicians' office, CDI is relatively unknown. However, with the move to value-based and risk-adjusted reimbursement models, CDI is becoming imperative. Accessing clinical information at each office presents a challenge for CDI specialists. Medcise, DataBank's Healthcare Solution, can streamline that process and remotely capture and index patient information, allowing CDI specialists to electronically access the data from any designated location.

What can DataBank offer?

Building on four decades of experience, DataBank has an established track record of delivering premier data and document management solutions to America's leading healthcare providers.

DataBank has helped hundreds of health systems transition to paperless workflows, allowing them to better utilize their EMR. By implementing Medcise in an ambulatory setting or a physicians' office, health systems can capture hand-written documentation at the point-of-care, and automatically upload it to the appropriate patient record.

Scanning is done directly at the physicians' offices, so patient information doesn't need to leave the premises. Once the documents are scanned, the images are automatically indexed and securely transferred to DataBank's ISO 27001 certified and HIPAA/HITECH compliant data center for quality review. They are then uploaded directly into your document management system or accessed through SaaS (Software as a Service) utilizing our secure data center.

Results

- Close the gap to a centralized legal medical record between the hospital and remote physician practices
- Easily access physician office records for CDI reviews
- Significantly improve communication between the hospital and each physicians' practice
- Implement efficient image capture and workflow solutions
- Take advantage of high image quality and reduced indexing errors

Benefits

- Patient information is available directly to your CDI Specialists within the EMR
- Add remote access to physician office documentation
- Decrease turnaround times
- Free-up internal resources
- Leverage our ISO 27001 certification
- Reduce courier fees
